AYER'S Sugar-Coated Cathartic PILLS.

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, and Dyspepsia. —G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Downsville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than one month, I was cured.—Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored. —Theodore Esling, Richmond, Va.

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.

—Every member of the Davenport family are on the stage—the mother, two sons and three daughters.

—Jennie June asserts that American women stand at the head for health, complexion, taste and good temper.

—They tell in Cambridge of a Harvard student who burned his hand to punish himself for an exhibition of hasty temper.

—A South Carolina woman has a record of seventeen children in nine years of married life. There were eight pairs of twins.

—The hallucination of an inmate of the insane asylum at Middletown, N. Y., who is worth $500,000, is that he is President of the United States.

—Fanny Rasche, a New Orleans rag-picker, having accumulated a bank account of $4,400 by the time she was sixty, lay down on a pile of rags and died.

—Mrs. S. H. Potter, of Columbus, O., sues a certain French "professor" of Cincinnati, because, instead of removing hair from her face, he disfigured her for life.—Chicago Herald.

—Meissonier offered to paint a picture on a white satin fan belonging to his little grand-daughter. She refused the offer, not without indignation, and said she did not want her pretty fan soiled with his old paints.

—Rob Roy Smith is the name of a Memphis ex-policeman who was arraigned in the police court the other day on a charge of recklessly driving a water-cart, thereby ruining Mr. James Carr's new suit and disgracing two famous names.

—Apropos of monuments to men who deserve them, Rouen will shortly erect by public subscription a statue (in the famous Cathedral) to La Salle, who discovered the Mississippi. He was born in the old French city, where Jeanne d'Arc was burned.—N. Y. Independent.

—Edward E. Hale tells a striking anecdote of Agassiz. In a great publishing house he saw the proof-sheets on a schoolbook of natural history. "Three butterflies," he said, "only three in the book, and not one of these three was ever in America."—Boston Transcript.

—Two extraordinary marriages took place in Suffolk County, N. Y., recently. Justice Lewis, of Babylon, joined Charles Cornelius, a wealthy farmer, aged seventy-two, to Miss Agnette Horton, aged twenty-eight, and at Huntington Gamal Bennett, a widower of fifty-four, was united to Lillie Jackson, who has just turned thirteen.—Cleveland Leader.

"A LITTLE NONSENSE."

—Smith—"What is Brown's business?" Grey—"Well, from what I observed to-day, I should say he was a ship carpenter." S.—"What was that?" G.—"Trying to board a vessel."—Boston Budget.

—It is said that bees possess the power of memory. If the bee that sat down on the back of our neck last summer will come round and apologize we won't say any more about it.—New Haven News.

—Mother—"How many times have I called you this morning, Arthur?" Arthur (turning over for a fresh snooze)—"Can't tell you. You don't expect me to keep the account, do you?"—New Haven News.

—Wigwag—"I don't know what I'm to do about that bill I owe at Sontag's, he annoys me fearfully." Wife—"Well, you know it he becomes unbearable you can pay it." Wigwag—"Yes, I can do that."—Detroit Free Press.

—"Maria, what did you do with that pie that was left from dinner yesterday?" "Threw it over the alley fence." "Just like you. Jim Sharkey's two dogs are dead this morning and he accuses me of poisoning them."—Brooklyn Eagle.

—Who's the man?—

My darling's brow's a silken arc,
Of deepest hazel are her eyes
Beneath those lashes long and dark,
As rich and pure as summer skies

Those ruby lips, so tempting sweet
To touch them were eternal bliss,
Yet who so bold would dare entreat
The heavenly rapture of a kiss?

—De Baggs—"The purpose of the stage has been misunderstood. It not only amuses, but it instructs and elevates. For instance, you see a heavy drunker, De Kaggs. You should see 'Ten Nights in a Barroom.' It would do you good." De Kaggs—"I don't believe it would. I have frequently seen ten barrooms in a night and I was always the worse for it next day."—Philadelphia Call.

—At the Restaurant.—Guest—"Here, waiter, what's this in the soup?" Waiter—"A spoon, sah." Guest—"No insolence, sir. There's a fly in it, take it away." Waiter—"Skuse me, boss, but dat ain' no fly." Guest—"I say it is. Take it away." Waiter—"All right, boss. But dat ain' no fly. Das a roach, boss. We don' serve no flies yer in wintah time. Dis am a fus'-class place, an' we don' serve nuffin outer season, sah."

—"I wish you would not fill the next pig with cloves," he growled as he sunk a carving knife into a well garnished infantile porker. "Why, I thought you liked cloves," replied the wife, with considerable astonishment. "Of course I don't. The flavor of a clove is enough to make a graven image sick." "This is the first time I ever heard you complain about a clove." "Always abhorred them." "Why is it, then, you can't sit through a play without tramping over a dozen persons in your eagerness to get them between acts?" "Ahem! Will you kindly pass me the butter?"—N. O. Times-Democrat.

FRIDAY EVE. MAY 20, 1887

Ex-Gov. Smith, of Virginia, better known as "Extra Billy" Smith, died yesterday at his home near Warrenton, Va at the age of 80

It is rarely that a college student has his piece in the world offered to him before commencement day, but Mr Stagg of Yale, has already received an offer which ought to gratify any ambitious collegian New York wants him for a pitcher

The reception of Senator Sherman at Springfield, June 1 will be an outdoor affair, held in the Capitol grounds Governor Oglesby will preside and introduce the Senator All the details of the affair have been satisfactorily arranged A large attendance is expected from neighboring towns

The new member from Florida, Samuel Pasco is a native of England who came to Massachusetts in early life and was educated there He went to Florida in 1859 and when the war broke out entered the Confederate service in a regiment from that state He has been since the war closely identified with the educational interests of the state

It the rule adopted by the trades unions with reference to apprentices shall prevail it will not be long until we will have little or no skilled laborers in the land except such as come here from abroad Under the trades unions rules the boys of the country are practically debarred from learning trades If this is fair to the boys we cannot imagine what would be a tyrannical unfairness The laws of the country have just as many rights to protect idle and vicious boys who keep off their fathers premises from peaceable successful workmen as they have to protect the boycotter in his nefarious business Perhaps it is high time that the politicians who look upon American labor as right and liberty be plucked up by the roots and trampled under foot forever

A FAIR HEARING.

The Effect of the Attack on O'Brien Favorable to His Cause.

Public Sentiment Setting Strongly in Favor of Giving Him a Fair Hearing

Noble Sentiments Forcibly Uttered By a Rampant Protestant Apprentice of Kingston, Ont

O'Brien Must be Allowed to Speak

KINGSTON Ont May 19 The feeling regarding O Brien's visit to this city tomorrow night is becoming calmer and in all probability he will be given a fair hearing The disturbance in Toronto last night has had much to do in toning down the bitter feeling against him the leaders of the opposition fearing to incite a similar outbreak against him here The letter of James Marshall to the press conveyed the impression that the Orangemen were opposed to O Brien's coming but the sentiments of a large number have been minded and they are not in accord with Marshall The majority are against disturbance of any kind They say if O Brien's language was such as to incite to violence of the kind he deserves and if it were treasonable he should be indicted for it There will probably be an admission fee charged tomorrow and no one not in accord with O Brien need attend

Some of those interviewed spoke more forcibly J McIlroy an apprentice boy said Let O Brien speak The right of free speech should not be kept from any man I am from the north of Ireland and am as rampant a Protestant as there is in the city yet I would be willing to lay my gun over O Brien's shoulder and protect him from the attacks of any person while he is talking I am not in sympathy with the movement he represents but he must have fair play

The speech will be made in the roller skating rink and if the good sense shown by the speakers prevails it will pass off quietly

Canceled

ST CATHERINES Ont May 20 The proposed visit of Wm O Brien to this city on Saturday or Tuesday next has been canceled

The Actors' Fund Monument

The monument is composed of Clark Island granite and consists of a plain shaft resting on an upper and lower base The lower base is eight feet square and the total height is forty five feet The inscription 'A F of A' is cut upon the base in raised letters On the front of the base is the inscription 'In loving and reverent memory of many votaries of the stage whose ashes are buried near it, the monument was placed here by The Actor's Fund of America June, 1887 Below this inscription is the following quotation from Julius Ceasar 'The benediction of these covering Heavens fall on their heads like dew' On the reverse side are some lines by William Winter

On June 7 the annual meeting of the Actor's Fund Association will be held in the Madison Square Theater

COERCION.

The Crimes Act Now Pending in the House of Parliament.

The First Clause as It Appeared Before Running the Gauntlet of the Opposition.

And the Same Clause as It Appears After Full Discussion, Amendments and Adoption.

LONDON, May 20 —As it has been quite hopeless for any outsider to follow in detail the debate in committee on the Crimes bill, it has been out of the question to transmit such detail daily by cable I now send you, verbatim, the first clause, as originally brought in and as now finally amended in committee The careless construction of the original clause may be gathered from the numerous important safeguards which, under pressure, the government has accepted If a more reasonable and conciliatory disposition had been shown by the ministers, the whole clause might have been got through in two nights The first clause of the bill as brought in was as follows

Whenever the Attorney General for Ireland believes any offense to which the section applies has been committed in the proclaimed district, he may direct the resident magistrate to hold an inquiry under the section Thereupon such resident magistrate may, although no person may be charged before him with the commission of such crime, sit at the police court, or petty sessional court-house, or police station and examine on oath concerning such offense any witness appearing before him, may take the deposition of such witnesses, and if he see any cause, may bind such witness by recognizance to appear and give evidence at the next petty sessions, or when called upon within three months from the date of such recognizance The enactments relating to compelling the attendance of a witness before the justice and to the witness at tending before the said justice, being required to give evidence concerning any matter of information or complaint for an indictable offense, or concerning a matter of information or complaint in respect of an offense punishable upon summary conviction, as the case may be, shall apply for the purpose of this section as if they were re enacted herein, and in terms made applicable thereto, provided, in case a warrant shall be issued for the arrest of any witnesses in the first instance without any summons having previously been served or disobeyed, such witness shall on demand, be entitled to receive from the resident magistrate holding the inquiry a copy of the information on complaint on which the warrant for his arrest was issued

Where a witness, examined at such inquiry under this section, is under the age of twelve years, the parent or guardian of such witness or the relative or friend with whom such witness usually resides, shall be entitled to attend at such inquiry

The resident magistrate holding an inquiry under this section, shall himself conduct such inquiry and shall not permit any other person to question or examine any witness

The first additional provision was inserted at the instance of Marum, the second and fifth provisions and the two concluding clauses inserted at the instance of Healy the fourth at the instance of Healy with amendments by the government In this fourth provision it will be seen that according to the draft the solicitor is to be summoned for trial in addition to the case

The Pacific Railroads Investigation.

NEW YORK, May 20 Mr Gould resumed the witness stand yesterday morning when the Pacific Investigation Commission began business Witness, after asserting that the provisions of the consolidated mortgage trust were strictly complied with, went on to give an account of the total indebtedness of the Union Pacific, as follows On December 14 1879 the total indebtedness was $88,472,391 10 consisting of various issues of bonds The outstanding issue of stock at that time was $26,789,300 The indebtedness of the Kansas Pacific at that time was $35 103 518 50 The stock was $9,809,840 and the stock of the Denver Pacific $4,000 000.

"My holdings in Union Pacific," said the witness, were $2,700,000 stock and $1,000,000 bonds. I did not hold a controlling interest at that time. I had $4,000,000 railroad stock and about $8,000,000 in bonds. I owned the Missouri Pacific at that time. By releasing the $8,000,000 Denver Pacific bonds, we made the consolidation mortgage for $500,000 less. The outstanding consolidated to-day amount to $14,630,000. When all the underlying bonds have been converted the trust will have issued all of the consolidated bonds. The Union Pacific Railroad Company became the owners of the $11,000,000 Denver Pacific stock by the consolidation, and issued $4,000,000 of its own stock in place of it. They issued $3,464,168 48 of this stock to pay me. The only effect of the issuing of this stock was to increase the indebtedness of the Union Pacific, and the Denver Pacific stock is not an important factor in the matter of this investigation, for that indebtedness could have been made just as well without reference to it. At the time of the consolidation I was owner of the Kansas Pacific controlling interest, and was in a position to dictate the terms of the consolidation My holdings in the Kansas Pacific at that time amounted to $9,053,024 99 I didn't lose any money by the consolidation, nor did I make any, for the securities were worth just as much before as after the consolidation The indebtedness of the consolidated road was $124,314,999 60, and the stocks $50,762,300 The object of the directory in changing the name of the Kansas Pacific Railroad Company to the Union Pacific Railway Company was because it was a new child, and to avoid mixing up accounts My friends and I did not own a controling interest in the Union Pacific and Kansas Pacific railroads at the time between 1878 and 1880, nor did we control the market by any concerted arrangement The prices were made by the public, who dealt in the stock My holdings remained about the same all the time

Mr Littler branched off from the subject to ask Mr Gould what he thought of the Inter State Commerce bill Mr Gould said

"There is a great deal of good and some bad in it I have not asked the commission for any change yet; I should prefer to wait a year or two before giving any definite opinion"

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Inter-State Commerce Commission.

WASHINGTON, May 20 —Several hours yesterday were passed by the Inter-State Commission in listening to Mr Albert Fink, the commissioner of the Northern trunk lines Mr Fink represented no road or roads, but being in town, was invited by the commission to express his views on the long and short haul section He favored its suspension in the cases of all the roads that have applied to the commission to have this section suspended

The commission expect that the general manager of the Central Pacific railway will appear before them to-day to present the case of the transcontinental lines.

In reply to General John C Black, who asked the commission that a ruling be made that should force certain railroads who had refused to give a half-rate fare to members of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers and Sailors, the commission say that it is without their jurisdiction to do so The meritorious character of the petition and statements of General Black are admitted, but the commission state that under the law they are powerless The letter concludes with a regret that it is unable to do more for the petitioners he represents, but states that it is unable to prematurely impose any construction of the law

The commission yesterday received the sworn statement of a committee representing the Western and Southwestern water lines at Cincinnati, complaining that the railroads of the Southwest make a different classification of freight to the water terminals They contradict flatly the statement made by the railroad lines that the water lines make rates for them, and urge the commission to rescind the order suspending section 4 of the new law, and to "make the railroads conform to the will of the people as expressed in the Inter State Commerce law"

UNKNOWN DEAD.

Unveiling of a Monument to the Unnamed Heroes of the Lost Cause.

The Town of Hopkinsville, Ky., in Gala Attire in Honor of the Occasion.

A Beautiful and Touching Tribute to Brave Men Who Followed Their Convictions of Duty.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky, May 20 —The dedication of the monument donated by Mr John C Latham, of New York, to the memory of the unknown Confederate dead in the cemetery at Hopkinsville, took place at noon yesterday. The ceremonies were elaborate and imposing A holiday had been declared, and every street and alley, every business house and residence was decorated A large number of distinguished visitors were present from this and adjoining States Governor Taylor of Tennessee and staff, the Hermitage Club from Nashville, Governor Knott, General S. B Buckner, Secretary of State McKenzie, Auditor Hewitt, Attorney-General Hardin, Colonel Breckenridge and Collector Cox, of Kentucky, and many other distinguished persons were among them

Letters of regret were received from Jefferson Davis, General Lucius H Fairchild, ex-Senator Alcorn, of Mississippi, General John Echols and many others. Mr Latham, donor of the monument, was also unable to be present There were fully six thousand people around the monument when the exercises began

The first oration was by Hon Jas Breathitt, presenting the monument to the city Hon W C P Breckinridge followed in an eloquent tribute to the Confederate soldier, and Rev Dr Chas Deems, of New York spoke of the lesson of the war Mr Latham sent the following letter from New York

NEW YORK, May 14

To the President and Members of the Board of Council of the City of Hopkinsville Ky

GENTLEMEN—I sincerely regret that owing to demands on my time of business engagements requiring personal attention, it is impossible for me to be present at the unveiling of the Confederate monument in your cemetery This work which I undertook in tribute to the unknown dead is finished What was but an ideal purpose in my beginning has by your help developed into an acknowledged fact The obelisks of old are marked by strange hieroglyphics that hide the motives of their construction in mystery On the monument which you today unveil is chiseled in plain type the explanation of its object and the sentiment of its creation In its construction I have been sustained by several thoughts First of all I have felt safe from the suspicion of selfishness because it was a memorial to the unknown dead Secondly I have felt perfect confidence in the sympathy of all true women and brave men believing that they would recognize in the tomb a deserved tribute to all of heroism that could die Thirdly, I have rejoiced in the opportunity it gave me to do honor to the memory of my comrades in arms, who left their homes and lost their lives for conscience sake And finally, I have felt that this memorial shaft would beautify the city of the dead in which my father sleeps, and that the martial spirits of the dead soldiers beneath it would stand guard about his grave

The letter concludes with expressions of pleasure at being able to have this opportunity, and adds

In now formally turning over the monument to you as the official guardians of the city of Hopkinsville, I beg to say that every expense incident to the construction has been met and to assure you that of the total cost there remains not one dollar unpaid I have also made such an indorsement provision as will yield sufficient income to keep the monument and grounds in perfect order for all time to come

He also adds his regrets that the removal of the Federal dead to the National cemetery at Fort Donelson prevented the joint dedication of the monument to their memory

THE MONUMENT

The following description of the monument will be of interest The base of the structure is eight feet three inches square, supporting a pedestal of two polished stones, with intaglio border on the upper stone projecting On the southern face, in a raised panel, appear in bold letters

CONFEDERATE DEAD

Above this is the die seven feet in height by four and one half feet square, with four highly polished panels On the west side is the inscription

This monument is erected at the place of his birth by a surviving comrade to commemorate the virtues of the Confederate dead A D 1887

On the north panel is the following inscription

Beneath this sod is mingled the dust of 101 unknown soldiers who were attached to the following commands First Mississippi regiment Second Mississippi regiment, Seventh Texas regiment Eighth Kentucky regiment, Forrest's cavalry and Graves's Kentucky artillery War between the States 1861 1865

On the east panel is engraved the sentiment

While martyrs for conscience sake are respected the valor and devotion of the Confederate soldiers will be admired by the good and the brave

On he panel facing the south is the inscription

Round this column is buried all the heroism that could die

The north and south sides of the die are decorated with bronze cannons and the east and west sides with laurel wreaths Above the die is a plain square shaft twelve feet high On the front of the shaft are two crossed swords, with a laurel wreath The structure is ornamented with a Corinthian cap-stone bearing on its summit a pyramid of five polished granite cannon balls, eighteen inches in diameter The entire structure is thirty-seven and one-half feet in height At the approach to the monument from the south side is an ornamental entrance of granite eight feet wide On the posts of the entrance are engraved branches of laurel and oak, and underneath an antique dagger encircled by a wreath of laurel

The lot in which the monument stands is one of the most beautiful spots in Southwestern Kentucky, and was selected by the donor of the monument, who, at his own expense, had the remains of the unknown soldiers removed from the ground in which they rested for more than twenty years, placed in new boxes and buried side by side in a new lot. The new resting place for the Confederate dead is laid off in nearly the shape of a heart, is beautifully sodded and is bordered by granite curbing In addition to this generous work he had the drives through the grounds graveled with Paducah conglomerate gravel, all the surplus trees removed and every tombstone on the ground straightened—in fact nothing was left undone to beautify the grounds for the occasion.

Bob Lamar Acquitted

OXFORD Miss, May 19 —Bob Lamar, accused of killing the Harmon brothers, of Dallas, Miss in 1884, was acquitted by a jury yesterday on a third trial, the case having been taken to the Supreme Court three times Lamar was first sentenced to be hanged for the second trial he was sentenced to the State prison for life The acquittal yesterday was a surprise, and it is attributable to the work done by the lawyers Lamar will now be taken to Calhoun County to be tried for killing Detective Wise, of Texas, just after he killed the Harmon brothers Lamar's brother-in-law, Doc Bishop, was hanged at Pittsboro last July for this crime Lamar if said to have been with Bishop Detective Wise was after Lamar and the reward offered for him for killing the Harmons Wise was led into a trap and murdered Lamar went to the wilds of Alabama, but two peddlers who came along one day got the drop on him, and after putting hand cuffs on his wrists announced that they were detectives Then came the three trials, the last of which has just ended so nicely for Lamar

A New Phase of the Labor Question

CHICAGO, May 19 An effort is said to be in progress to the labor camp to have the legality of the building employers' combination to control the sale of material in and of them lock out tested in the courts The alleged unlawful conspiracy will, it is said, be laid before State's Attorney Grinnell to-day, with a view to its presentation to the grand jury The opinion of C C Bonney, the eminent counsel, has been sought by representatives of District Assembly No 24 He gave it as his impression that an indictment would be found, and volunteered the suggestion that the true solution of the matter would be the creation of a State board of labor and capital by the Legislature, with plenary powers

A Thousand Acres of Fire

C Mann, a prominent citizen of this city, who was drowned in Cayuga lake, by the capsizing of his boat on May 4, was found yesterday floating in the water near where the drowning occured Charles E Courtney, the oarsman, discovered the body, while out on the lake in his boat He will receive the reward of $100 offered for the recovery of the body

The Other Side of the Question.

RICHMOND Va, May 19 —Speaker Stuart, chairman of the Legislative Debt Commission, will, at four o'clock to day, make an additional report, showing the misstatement of Sir Edward Thornton and Braithwaite, made in the circular published by them, fixing the principal of the basis of debt settlement at $16,000,000.

SELBY, STARR & Co., builders of grain drills at Peoria, recently lost their factory by fire, and it is said they are looking for a more eligible location for their factory. They could not find a better place than Decatur, which is within the wheat growing belt, while Peoria is not. Let the Board of Trade enter into correspondence with Selby, Starr & Co., and probably something may come of it. There's nothing like trying.

FORT MADISON, Iowa, is booming with a mighty boom. She secured the bridge to be built across the Mississippi by the Santa Fe road, and now says she has also succeeded in getting the main construction and repair shops of that road, which will cost over $2,000,000 Contracts for the lumber necessary for the purpose have already been made Burlington and Keokuk may have a dangerous rival in the city of Fort Madison in the near future

KANSAS CITY Times "You can bet your life," says the esteemed Clay Center Times, "that a newspaper that sneers at booms is published in a town duller than a graveyard." True, and you can throw in your boots that the best and only way to promote a boom is through the newspapers Chicago and Kansas City will testify to that"

THE latest natural gas story comes from Wabash, Ind, and is to the effect that a farmer, after cutting down a tree, was astonished to hear a roaring sound, and upon touching a match to the stump of the tree it burst into flames, extending many feet in the air Since the event the little boys in the vicinity are afraid to run their little toes down into the crawfish holes for fear they may be blown off by an explosion of natural gas Land! What fools these Indianians are!

IT is said that a congressman was recently urging an appointment on President Cleveland and concluded by saying "And further, Mr. President, he has great influence in our state, and has done most valuable work for the party there" "Don't you think," answered the President, with a quiet smile, that you had better keep him at that?" This is a revelation as to why the President refuses to appoint working Democratic spoils politicians to office He wants to keep them at party work

Another Electric Light Plant.

An electrician from New York, representing the United States Company, arrived in Decatur to-day, and will proceed at once to establish an electric light plant, near the round house, for the exclusive use of the Wabash company, to cost about $8,000. The Thompson-Houston system will be used. The plant will have a capacity of 20 arc lights and 100 incandescent lights, the arc lights to be used in the Wabash yards, at the street crossings and at the depot, the incandescent lights to the number of 75 to be distributed among the offices. This is a part of Decatur's boom and the Wabash is to be congratulated on its enterprise in thus providing for its own convenience while it gives the visitor of the night time a splendid exhibition of the thrift of the city. Keep it up. We'll hurrah for you.

SPRINGFIELD has an organization known as the Merchants and Shippers' Association. This body has appointed a committee of five leading citizens to get up excursions from various points to the capital. It is a sensible movement, one that Decatur should adopt.

THIS morning Grant Ballentine and Bob Truitt, who had been fined $3 and costs by Justice Provost for disorderly conduct, refused to do duty on the chain gange and Marshal Mason put them back in the calaboose on bread and water. The Cavanaugh and Black women paid their fines and regained their liberty.

THERE is no danger to human life more to be dreaded than that which arises from vitiated blood. Dyspepsia, rheumatism, headache, and general debility, all result from it, and are cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Take it this month. Six bottles, $5.

IT is the intention of Prof. H. S. DeSolla, who has made his home in Decatur several years, to locate at Denver, Colo., where he will open a business college. The Professor is every inch a gentleman and attends strictly to business. He and his accomplished wife have scores of friends in Decatur who regret to learn that they are soon to change their place of residence. Prof. Horatio Nelson has taken charge of the Decatur College. He comes from Atlanta, Ga., and comes to the city highly recommended. He will enlarge and extend the usefulness of the institution.

Dr. Warrick will deliver an address. Admission 5 and 10 cents.

A GERMAN residing at Lincoln became bewildered last night coming in from Peoria on the Decatur excursion. The train had pulled out of Hartsburg, the first station beyond Lincoln. Jumping up quickly he walked to the rear platform and jumped off, while the train was going at the rate of 25 miles an hour. He was seen rolling over and over down the embankment among the weeds. But it was some time before the train could be stopped. After a little delay the train went on to Lincoln, from which point telegrams were sent back to Hartsburg notifying the agent of what had occurred.

Free Concerts in the Park.

The merchants have been hustling this week, and by putting up their cash have arranged with Goodman's band for free concerts for the people in Central Park every Saturday night during the season up to September. The first concert will be given to-morrow night. This is a good business move, and will tend largely to furnish popular entertainment for the public while they come up town to do their trading at the stores.

Struck Coal.

Last night a vein of coal 7 feet 9 inches thick was struck at Taylorville at a depth of 438 feet. The town is wild with joy. A shaft will be sunk at once.

THERE was a small blaze this forenoon at the rear of the James Dedman property, 841 North Main street, caused by somebody setting fire to a lot of straw near a stable. Part of the frame was burnt away, and R. Braden's coal shed was damaged. The department turned out.

The Five-Gallon Law.

The new law goes into effect July 1st. The first section contains the pith of the matter, except that another section says it shall not be necessary to state the kind of liquor sold, and is as follows:

"That whoever shall, outside of the incorporated limits of any city, town, or village, by himself or another, either as principal, clerk, or servant, directly or indirectly, sell, barter or exchange, or in any other manner dispose of for money or anything of value, any intoxicating liquors of any kind, in any less quantity than five gallons and in the original package as put up by the manufacturer, shall for each offence be fined not less than $50 nor more than $100, or imprisonment in the county jail not less than 30 nor more than 90 days, or both in the discretion of the court."

Maude Atkinson Coming.

Next Monday evening the favorite actress, Maude Atkinson, will begin a week's engagement at the opera house, appearing Monday evening in the great emotional drama, "Divorce," or lost and won. She is now filling a two weeks' engagement in Bloomington, and the papers of that city speak highly of the company. Prices, only 10 and 20 cents. The Way a Town is Built.

Mr. Henry B. Earing, the well-known hardware man, has just returned from a trip to Omaha, and as he took in the boom of that now famous city, a description of the way it is done may be of interest to our readers. Mr. Earing had daly registered at his hotel and was about starting out to attend to the business that had called him there, when he was accosted by a well-dressed gentleman who said: "I believe I have the pleasure of addressing Earing, of Peoria?" "You certainly have," replied Henry, "but I do not recollect ever meeting you." "I am in the real estate business here," returned the other, "and I would like to show you over the city." "I am not here to buy real estate," said Mr. Earing, "but on another matter, and I shall leave for Peoria this evening." "That makes no difference," said the Omaha man, "I'll call for you this afternoon." So Earing dispatched his business, ate his dinner, and at the appointed time the Omaha man drove up in a splendid carriage with a spanking team, and for three hours descanted to Earing on Omaha. He showed him lots, grew eloquent over the fortunes that had been made, sketched in dazzling colors, the future of the city, and in fact filled Earing up to the neck with Omaha. As the time drew near to go back to the hotel Earing said, "Now my dear sir, I have had a splendid time; but what puzzles me is, why you have taken all this trouble for me? I am not even a prospective customer, and I told you so to start with." The Omaha man laughed and replied, "This is a part of the boom. Now I have said so much to you about Omaha that you will go away so full of it that you will talk it in spite of yourself. It will advertise the city in a way that we could not do by any other means." And so they parted. The moral of this is that if we will build up Peoria we must begin to believe in the city ourselves and then miss no opportunity to talk it up to outsiders.—Peoria Journal.

AT HYMEN'S ALTAR.

Happy Marriage of Hugh M. Bragg and Sallie McRoberts.

A large and fashionably attired company of invited guests assembled at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McRoberts, 328 N. Franklin street, last night, to witness the happy marriage of their second daughter, Miss Sallie McRoberts, and Mr. Hugh M. Bragg, of this city. There were over one hundred guests present to extend congratulations to the young couple whose married life began so joyously. Shortly after the appointed hour—8 o'clock—Mr. Bragg and Miss McRoberts entered the handsomely furnished parlor and were soon made husband and wife, the officiating clergyman, the Rev. A. Kinney Hall, of St. John's church, using the beautiful ring service of the Episcopal church. The responses were clearly spoken, and the personal greetings which followed were of the heartiest character. The accomplished bride, who is a graduate of the Decatur high school and a favorite among all her acquaintances, was becomingly attired in a rich dress of surah satin with passamenterie trimming, natural flowers and diamonds for ornaments.

The sumptuous wedding feast, which was complete in all its appointments, had been prepared under the personal supervision of the bride's mother. It embraced all of the substantials and delicacies of the season, and included twenty-two different kinds of cake. At the proper time the newly made wife, just a little nervous, observed the time-honored custom of cutting the bride's cake in the presence of the company. Attentive white-aproned waiters flitted about the tables and saw that all were served promptly.

After the feast of good things, the costly array of useful and beautiful gifts of silverware, decorated china, pictures, books, linen, etc., bestowed upon the bride by relatives and friends, were viewed and admired by the company, and an hour later farewells were exchanged. Relatives and friends in attendance from a distance were Mrs. Jas. W. Bradfield, of Grand Forks, Dakota, sister of the bride; Mrs. John Gable and daughter, Mrs. Will Frances, of Peoria; D. McRoberts and Mrs. Sherman McRoberts, of Sherman, Illinois; Miss Hattie Hamer, of Springfield, Illinois; Hugh McRoberts, of Carran; James McRoberts, of Springfield, and C. F. Hildreth, of El Paso.

At midnight Mr. and Mrs. Bragg departed for the Wabash train and left for Chicago on a brief wedding trip. On their return they will take possession of their furnished home on West Marietta and at once enter upon the realities of married life.

Mr. Bragg has lived in Decatur several years and is the gentlemanly solicitor for the Daily Review. The REPUBLICAN fraternally congratulates him on securing for a life companion one of Decatur's fairest daughters, and wishes the couple a long life of happiness and usefulness.

THE President seems to be very slow in making up his mind about visiting Chicago and St. Louis, and it has been cruelly suggested that his difficulty in coming to a conclusion arises from a morbid dread of Indians. Having no vice-president to fall back upon, he is fearful about risking his life so far west, where, he imagines, a savage with a tomahawk and scalping knife lurks in every clump of bushes. Poor man.

A Card.

I desire to announce to my friends, patrons, and the students of the Central Business College that I have this day disposed of the furniture and good will of the institution to Prof. Horatio Nelson, a teacher of twenty-three years experience and eight years an accountant. Mr. Nelson has been principal of Nelson's Business College, Cincinnati, Ohio, for ten years, and of Moore's Business University, Atlanta, Ga., for eight years. He is the author of a work on book keeping and commercial calculations that is highly endorsed by the leading educators of this country. I take pleasure in recommending him, and request for him a continuance of the patronage so liberally bestowed upon me.

Respectfully, H. S. DESOLLA.
Decatur, Ill., May 19, 1887.

I hereby extend a cordial greeting to all the friends and patrons and students of the Central Business College and invite you one and all to call upon me at your earliest convenience. I shall endeavor to make you feel at home, and as you can complete your studies free of charge, I hope for a large attendance. I will introduce the latest and best system of teaching book keeping extant, viz: through the medium of an organized business community. I intend increasing the faculty at once, and will make improvements in the hall and furniture adding to its appearance and to facilitate the transaction of business. I have made teaching the business of my life, and guarantee satisfaction to all. Hoping to form the acquaintance of all the students and friends of the College, I remain

Truly yours, HORATIO NELSON,
20-d2* Principal.

RICH BALTIMOREANS.

SOME SUCCESSFUL MEN OF THE CITY OF MONUMENTS

How Fortunes Have Been Made by the Manipulators of the Oldest American Railroad—Editor Abell's Successful Penny Paper.

[Special Correspondence.]

BALTIMORE, May 16.—Baltimore has very few phenomenally rich men, but there are several dozen here who can contemplate their millions and prospective rainy days with equal satisfaction. The wealth is not that of speculative results so much as of hard work, careful investments and steady saving. Much of it was made in the days when we had a merchant marine and when the Baltimore clippers, famous as the swiftest boats of the day, carried Baltimore goods to all parts of the world. Southern railroads, too gave a great deal of money to Baltimore capitalists. Several of the fortunes came from the Baltimore and Ohio road. At one time its stock sold as low as one-third of its face value. Gradually it crept to twice its par value, and the effect, of course, was to make those who had placed their confidence and their money in it rich men. One of these was Johns Hopkins, who died several years ago and who left several million dollars, the greatest benefaction on record in this country, to found a university and the biggest hospital in the world. The wealth of the Garretts came largely from this same source. President Robert Garrett of the Baltimore and Ohio road is worth from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. His brother, T Harrison Garrett, is worth about $10,000 000, and his sister, Miss Mary Garrett, with the same amount, is the richest single lady in the United States. All three are generous givers to charity, and all have magnificent homes. Their residences are on Mount Vernon place, a beautiful square, on which every resident is either a millionaire or an aristocrat, or both, and which contains the celebrated Barye statues and fountains and the first monument ever erected to the memory of George Washington.

On Mulberry street, near Cathedral, is a large and beautifully finished Romanesque building of white marble. It is exquisitely finished and thoroughly admirable in every way. This is the Enoch Pratt free library, and it does more real good to Baltimore, in a literary way, than all the other libraries combined. There is a constant stream of people flowing in and out of its ponderous oaken doors, and its large reading room is always occupied with men, women and children, examining and devouring the latest books and magazines. Enoch Pratt is a Massachusetts man. He was born in North Middleborough on the 10th of September, 1808. He went to Boston after getting a good academy education, and was a clerk in a store until he reached his 21st year. He came to Baltimore shortly afterward and established himself as a commission merchant. Afterward he founded a wholesale iron house, and when the war came on he realized largely on government contracts. To remarkable shrewdness he added the ability to save every possible cent, and the result was that he became one of the rich men of the city and there is no one whose business sense obtains wider respect than his. A proof of this is seen in the fact that, although a Republican, in an overwhelmingly Democratic city, he has been twice selected as one of the three members of the finance commission of Baltimore. In appearance Mr Pratt looks like an overworked bookkeeper of an establishment that does not pay large salaries. He is undersized and stoop shouldered, and the only feature that keeps him from looking commonplace is a pair of remarkably bright eyes. He has given various sums of money to New England towns. In 1882 he determined to surprise the people of Baltimore. He did it with his customary shrewdness. Instead of waiting for death and the things that come after, including will contests and lawyers' fees, he decided to carry out his own plans, and the result has proved his wisdom. He gave the city, in cash and buildings, the sum of $1,145 853.33 for a public library. The city guarantees in return an annuity of $50 000 which not only supports the library and its branches, but gives a liberal allowance for the purchase of books. Mr Pratt superintended the building of the institution and it is now the second best public library in this country. An interesting feature is that while the books are free to everybody in the city, not a volume has been stolen or lost.

On the 17th inst The Baltimore Sun the richest newspaper of the south will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary. The man who found ed it will be present to give interest to and derive enjoyment from the event. His name is Arundale S Abell, and he is the wealthiest newspaper proprietor in this country. No one but himself, who by the way, is his only confidant—knows exactly how much he is worth but the amount is variously estimated from $10,000,000 to $20,000 000. He came into this world 71 years ago in East Providence R I and after getting a common school education went to Boston where he stuck type on one or two of the papers until he looked around for better things. He came southward. In New York he met William M Swain and A H Simmons, and with them he went over to Philadelphia and started The Public Ledger. It was a penny paper, and at first it had a hard road to travel but finally it began to get on and after that its progress was steady. Mr Abell then looked upon Baltimore as a first class field. All the papers here were six pennies. In 1837 he came over, and on the 17th of May he got out the first copy of The Sun. It was a penny paper and almost a counterpart of The Ledger. It was a success and for fifty years it has been a gold mine to the man who founded it. In 1864 the Philadelphia Ledger was sold to Messrs Childs and Drexel, and since then Mr Abell's interests have all been in Baltimore. The building that The Sun still occupies was the first in Baltimore ever erected in this country and The Sun was the first paper to use the magnetic telegraph for the transmission of news. Mr Abell has extensive investments in real estate. He has three sons and five daughters, all living, and all married except one. An interesting fact is that Mr Abell came from Philadelphia to Baltimore and became a millionaire while Mr George W Childs went from Baltimore to Philadelphia and made there that fortune which he has used so nobly and so well.

The first railroad in this country was the Baltimore and Ohio. At first the motive power was furnished by horses. All the inventive talent was directed toward solving the locomotive problem. Among the most active in this matter was a machinist named Winans. He invented the inside flanges as now used on car wheels and constructed successful locomotives. One day a stranger entered his shop and began asking questions. He answered them pleasantly and intelligently and the stranger then escorted the stranger over the shop. After a while the stranger introduced himself as Baron Krudener, the Russian minister. He had been sent over to Baltimore from Washington by his government. The consequence was that Machinist Winans made a locomotive and pile driver for the czar and the son, who went across the water to show the Russians how to operate the machines, returned to this country many times a millionaire, and by the contracts he made with the Russian government he and all his family became immensely wealthy. Thomas Winans, who leases the largest game preserves in Great Britain, and Ross Winans, who owns a magnificent mansion in this city as well as large establishments in both hemispheres, are now enjoying this wealth, which runs away up into the millions.

The greatest point of interest for visitors in Baltimore is the Walters Art gallery. It is entirely private but in the three spring months Mr Walters generously allows it to be open on stated days for the benefit of the Poor society. The tickets of admission are fifty cents and all the money goes to the association. This gallery is by long odds the most beautiful and valuable in this country and is said to be the most tasteful in the world. Its value is at least $1,000 000. The Japanese and China porcelain only are alone worth over $400 000. There are no ordinary pieces by all the great artists of the world. There are vases that cost $5,000 each. The other day Mr Walters bought a little picture scarcely larger than your two hands by Fortuny, for $7 000. The Oriental department alone contains 4 100 objects. There are priceless swords by the hundred—but a mere catalogue would take up this entire page. Mr Walters is many times a millionaire. He is a Pennsylvanian and is 67 years old. He is an engineer by profession and it was under his direction that the first iron ever manufactured with mineral coal was made. He made his money from commission business and judicious investments in southern railroads. He was a great friend of Thomas Scott the great president of the Pennsylvania road. He introduced the Percheron horse in this country and he has published a beautiful book about that noble animal. The first $5 he ever earned he spent for a picture and every year he has laid aside a goodly part of his income for works of art. The result is a collection which no amount of money could duplicate and which is the admiration of every art lover in America.

If you visit Baltimore you will probably meet on the street a quiet looking man with a splendidly developed head that may remind you of Napoleon Bonaparte. The gentleman is Charles J Bonaparte a direct descendant of the famous family of France. He is a millionaire is very quiet and elegant in his tastes is a very active Mugwump in politics and on the hustings is the most outspoken political orator in Maryland. During the last campaign he packed a prominent candidate's record for publicity purposes and the candidate scowled, swore and threatened all sorts of things. Mr Bonaparte merely replied advising in a quiet way that the candidate should sue him for libel. The candidate has not yet sued.

ALFRED ANDERSON

A MILLIONAIRE METHODIST

Washington C De Pauw and Some of His Gifts to Charity.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., May 17.—On the evening of May 4 W C De Pauw the noted millionaire of New Albany Ind was stricken with apoplexy in the railroad depot in Dearborn street, Chicago. Scarcely had this fact been made known when it was followed on the 5th by the news of his death. Despite the fact that deceased had a slight apoplectic stroke many years ago the news came as a general surprise, for he had entirely recovered his health and was apparently but little past the prime of life. Being but 65 years old. In his death Indiana and the country sustain a great loss, for he was not only the wealthiest man in the state, and exceedingly active in many business enterprises but he was far more than a mere money getter—he was a friend of humanity a liberal supporter of schools and colleges a true Christian and a very valuable citizen. His gift of $1 000 000 to Asbury university at Green astle Ind and the consequent change of its title to De Pauw university, gave him some national prominence among educators but this is only one of many liberal gifts to education religion and charity. His wealth was popularly estimated at $10,000 000 and through a life of active business he had grown in liberality as he gained in wealth.

Washington Charles De Pauw was born at Salem, Washington county, Ind Jan 4 1822. The family has been of some note for several generations, and the first De Pauw history mentions was a French nobleman of liberal principles. Of this family C Nelms De Pauw was private secretary to Prince Frederick III of Prussia and the author of several books. Charles De Pauw came to America with Lafayette and served honorably in behalf of freedom. After the war he married a Virginia lady and removed to the Blue grass region of Kentucky, where his son John De Pauw was born, and from which place he moved to Salem Ind. Gen John De Pauw, as he was called was a man of local influence, a judge and highly respected citizen. He was the father of the late millionaire, who was left an orphan at the age of 16. Washington was full of push energy though of limited education. He became deputy clerk of the county at the age of 19 and soon after reaching his majority was elected clerk. Finding no life lead for his wealth he went into the milling business first as dealing in grain and manufacturing. The De Pauw plate glass works are his creation and he was principal owner in a majority of the manufactories of New Albany. Finally Mr De Pauw was a Democrat and in very liberal one but he declined active participation in politics. His pastime was in the Methodist church of which he was a member and in the schools and colleges he had assisted. His home life was also very pleasant. His son, N I De Pauw was with him in Chicago when he was stricken and at his death. Thus suddenly ends the life of a really self made man a true Christian and remarkably valuable citizen. RETURNED TO THE SCHOOL ROOM

Miss Rose Elizabeth Cleveland to Be a Teacher in New York.

[Special Correspondence.]

HOLLAND PATENT N Y May 16—Miss Rose Elizabeth Cleveland is going to New York to live next September. At least that is the horoscope now cast for her by herself. She will be assistant editor of the Magazine of American History, edited by Mrs Martha J Lamb. Miss Cleveland will also be professor of American history in Mrs Sylvanus Reed's school.

She is already working on the magazine but will not remove from Holland Patent until September. Mrs Reed's new circular contains this announcement. Miss Cleveland has accepted the proposition made to her by Mrs Sylvanus Reed by which she is to be associated hereafter in the executive administration of Mrs Reed's school.

Miss Cleveland will share the burdens of the head of the school and will conduct in person the studies of the senior and post graduate classes in the department of American history. As a lecturer to post graduates on this field of literature she has previously earned a fair reputation. It has been said by those in authority that her rightful place was the professor's chair. She likes historical study, and is as familiar with classic as with modern history.

Part of her summer will be spent at her home here and part at some mountain resort.

Any who wonder that with her opportunities for literary work in which she has been successful she should choose the school room may rest assured that it is because she loves the profession of teacher. L. ELLIS
